

ANSWER KEY:

Dum Thēseus Troezēne crēscit, Aegēus Mēdēam in rēgnum accipit. (TEMPORAL)

While Theseus was growing up in Troezene, Aegeus received Medea into his kingdom. (historical present)

Fūgit ad hoc postquam rēgiam Corinthī accenderat filiōsque suōs ēnse necāverat. (TEMPORAL)

She fled to this place after she had set fire to the palace of Corinth and killed her own sons with a sword.

Cum hic in convīvium inīret, illa vīnō venēnum miscuit. (CIRCUMSTANTIAL)

When (under the circumstances when) he entered into the banquet, she (that one) mixed poison in the wine.

Hoc mortiferum venēnum ōlim factum est dē spūmīs albīs quibus Cerberus agrōs lātrātibus sparsit, dum Herculēs eum ex Orcō aufert. (TEMPORAL)

This deadly poison was once made from the white foam which Cerberus scattered in the fields by barking while Hercules brought him away out of Orcus.

Thēsēus pōculum sūmpserat, cum pater signa suī generis recognōvit et ab ōre Thēsēī pōculum abiēcit. (TEMPORAL)

Theseus had taken the cup, when his father recognized the marks of his own kind and threw the cup away from Theseus' mouth.

Mēdēa cantāns carmina magica necem effūgit, cum facinus patēre vidēret. (CAUSAL)

Chanting magical spells, Medea escaped death, since she saw that her crime was revealed.

At pater, cum laetus esset nātō tūtō inventō, tamen mīrātus est sē nefās ingēns paene commīsisse. (CONCESSIVE)

But his father, although he was happy after his son was discovered safe, nevertheless he was amazed that he had almost committed a huge crime.

Quamquam Mīnōs mīlite, quamquam nāvibus valet, tamen maximē valet īra patria, quod fīlius Androgeus Athēnīs interfectus erat. (CONCESSIVE; CAUSAL)

Although Minos was strong with respect to his army, although he was strong with respect to his navy, nevertheless his fatherly anger was especially strong because his son Androgeus had been killed in Athens.

Cum Andrōgeus ab Aegeō missus in perīculum interfectus esset, Mīnōs nunc bellum parāvit. (CAUSAL)

Since Androgeus had been killed having been sent into danger by Aegeus, Minos now prepared war.